THIRD MAN TRIED ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Jury trial of Oscar Montgomery, Washington C. H., twice indicted by the grand jury for burglary and larceny in connection with the looting of the country homes of O. A. Dobbins, president of the Greene County Farm Bureau, and Thomas Buck, of household goods valued at $504.70 last November 25, began in Common Pleas Court Friday morning.

Goods worth $307.50 were stolen from the Dobbins home while the loot obtained at Buck's home is valued at $197.20. Most of the stolen goods was recovered.

Two Clark County youths, previously convicted of being implicated in the two robberies, are serving sentences of from one to fifteen years in the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield. Another suspect, after being indicted, was released when alleged confessions of his two companions exonerated him and implicated Montgomery.

Did You Read This Clause In Your Fire Policy?

The "Falling Walls" clause in your Fire Policy says: "If a building or any material part thereof fall except as the result of fire, the policy shall immediately cease."

This means that if part of your building was blown down and the building afterward caught fire through a short circuit, heating system or some other cause, your fire policy would not pay the loss.

The only way to protect yourself against a loss by fire immediately following the falling of a building by windstorm is by having a windstorm policy written up to the full value of the property.

Let us tell you how little it would cost to insure your property in The Travelers, the largest multiple-line insurance organization in the world.

SHE THOUGHT HER CASE HOPELESS

Yet ALL-BRAN Brought Relief Almost Immediately—No Trouble Since

When constipation once gets a grip on a person, it is almost impossible to relieve it, let alone prevent it with drugs and treatments. But here's a lady who was freed from her suffering—read her letter:

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation and although I had tried about everything that was recommended to me, I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved.

"One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago."—Mrs. E. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Your system must have roughage or bulk daily, otherwise constipation is almost inevitable. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this bulk. It is a healthful cereal to eat every day. To use in cooked dishes or serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation and to prevent it. Far better than pills and laxatives whose doses often have to be increased to be effective. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran and is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

BESET

The wedding march has sounded, the guests have gone, the young husband folds his bride in his arms. They are presently starting out on the journey of life together.

They think their path is to be eternally strewn with roses and love tokens, but in reality many little demons lurk in the very shadow of the bridal palms. Bad temper, selfishness, vanity, untruthfulness, growing indifference, a tendency to flirt, which may end in unfaithfulness, even the social standing of the young couple may wreck their happiness.

Only the good angels of love, self-forgetfulness and fair play can rout these evil spirits, making another happy home to form a part of the rock foundation on which to build high ideals.

and the purse is divided among the winners after the match has deducted the entrance fee."

CONSTRUCTION OF DOG RACING TRACK WILL BE STARTED SOON

Bids for the construction of the proposed $100,000 dog track at Fairfield are expected to be asked within the next few days by the Fairfield Amusement Park Ltd., the partnership organization which is promoting the project. Actual racing will probably begin within fifty days.

This announcement was made by Attorney Frank L. Johnson, this city, following a meeting of the officers and directors of the organization Thursday night at the Gibbons Hotel in Dayton. Attorney Johnson, who looks after the legal interests of the group of men behind the idea, said the meeting was devoted to a discussion of intimate business details concerning the plans for inauguration of dog racing in Greene County.

Forty working days will be required for the construction of the grandstand seating 3,500 people and the paddocks for the dogs. Considerable work must also be done on the track.

The Fairfield Amusement Park Ltd., is unincorporated and will function as a partnership. Betting on the races will be conducted under a system which has been legalized by courts of three states, it is said. In both Louisiana and Missouri a form of ordinance substantially the same as the two measures passed by the Fairfield village council, has been held by the supreme courts, and in Illinois it is declared.

Attorney Johnson explains that the right claimed by the promoters to operate under the system of wagering which they have suggested—that of contributing to the purse for a race—is based upon section three, article eighteen, of the Ohio constitution, which gives to the municipalities the right of local self government so long as no law is violated.

Both cars vaulted the curb and smashed into the doorway of the building. The coupe, owned by R. C. Purdy, Canton, O., a salesman, registered at the Regl Hotel, was damaged and was taken to the local Ford station for repairs. The damage to a fender, wheel and running board is placed at $25. SHE THOUGHT HER CASE HOPELESS

Yet ALL-BRAN Brought Relief Almost Immediately—No Trouble Since

When constipation once gets a grip on a person, it is almost impossible to relieve it, let alone prevent it with drugs and treatments. But here's a lady who was freed from her suffering—read her letter:

"Mine was an extreme case of constipation and although I had tried about every thing that was recommended to me, I had almost given up hopes of ever being relieved."

"One day I came across your advertisement, so I thought I would try ALL-BRAN. It relieved me almost immediately and I have had no trouble since, which was almost three months ago."—Mrs. E. E. Leslie, 2104 Lyman St., Flint, Michigan.

Your system must have roughage or bulk daily, otherwise constipation is almost inevitable. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will supply this bulk. It is a healthful cereal to eat every day.

To use in cooked dishes or serve with milk or cream. To mix with other cereals.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation and to prevent it. Far better than pills and laxatives whose doses often have to be increased to be effective. Two tablespoons daily—chronic cases, with every meal. It is 100% bran and is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Served by hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

They think their path is to be eternally strewn with roses and love tokens, but in reality many little demons lurk in the very shadow of the bridal palms. Bad temper, selfishness, vanity, untruthfulness,

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

A TERRIBLE ARRAIGNMENT—Ye have ploughed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies; because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.—Hosea 10:13.

THE LEAGUE'S BACK STAIRS

Whether the United States becomes a member of the Permanent Court of International Relations is a matter of only passing interest to the majority of people in this country and the decision really does not involve a point of first class importance. At the same time it is rather ridiculous to say, as some of the alarmists do, that Mr. Root's mission to bring about American adherence is a scheme to "plunge the United States into the League of Nations through the trapdoor of its private court."

Elihu Root, who has one of the keenest minds the country has produced, was a leading and unrelenting opponent of the effort of President Wilson to involve the United States in the League of Nations. He also wrote the document which is the foundation of the world court. He would not knowingly lead America into the league by either the back stairs or the front stairs, and he certainly knows whether membership in the world court would involve any such process.

SETTING NEW STYLES

The Ohio State Journal thinks that Mr. Hoover's adoption of the medicine ball "will help to popularize" this form of exercise. We doubt it. Americans are not noticeably given to taking their cues in such matters from their chief executives. The Prince of Wales may appear at Ascot in a pink shirt and start a run on the haberdashers; but in this country fashions are more democratically established. We doubt if a single blue serge suit has been sold on the strength of Mr. Hoover's well advertised fondness for that material. We are quite sure that Mr. Coolidge's use of a mechanical horse for exercise did not create a vogue. This is as it should be. The author of the "Anatomy of Melancholy" warns against taking other men's remedies. "What is one man's meat is another man's poison" applies a smudge to medicine-balls as to pills. The form of exercise best suited to men and women is as much a matter for individual determination as the nostrums the doctors prescribe for them.

It does seem unfortunate that about the time Jim Reed loses his job in the senate the country shows a tendency to veer away from pyrotechnics, otherwise Jim might have got a job demonstrating fireworks.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

NEW YORK—Since the invasion of one of the big electric companies into the cinema as a lot of pres agents have discovered ancient vultures that they didn't know existed. A few of them are "Thank you" and "Please." One of the appliance firms, incidentally in the billionnaire class, has installed 12,000 sound devices in theatres throughout the country, but nothing has been said of it, no exploitation at all. If it had been accompanied by a movie outfit, the fact would have been heard far and wide.

When a press agent for the appliance company recently displayed his copy, which would acquaint the public with the installation feat, the executive said: "Don't you think that would appear too boastful?" The press agent, who had just transferred from a movie company, at most collapsed, and writes us that he is willing to sell at any price his package of superlatives for which he no longer has a market.

BIG BEN

There's a $25,000 Ben Ben, the actor, who recently married Ruth Roland, the screen favorite, who invested in real estate when every one in Hollywood was investing in gin. For a wedding gift Miss Roland gave her new husband a million dollars. Their wedding was an elegant affair.

BY WAY OF REPORT

The reformers and business who enjoy getting their claws into the supposedly immoral stage performers, should try Roger Imhof on their plumes. Besides writing innumerable volumes on the history of the stage, Mr. Imhof has also prepared no fewer than fifty "moral" volumes of verse dealing with "The beautiful things in life." And he recently completed "The Actor's Bible," which not only is a complete translation of the Good Book, but is really a sensible and believable religion. But what he started out to say was that Mr. Imhof, who has written so much stuff, hasn't thought of a new line for his act, which he has been playing for fifteen years.

FASHIONABLY LATE
 Fourteen New York cronies of the Junior League crusade for punctuality at dinners and earlier dances. They protest against dinners which start at 10 p. m. and midnight dances. Worse than that, they sigh, young business men are dodging their fetes. Only college men are accepting invitations.

The consoling feature of the situation is that the limit is reached. Parties cannot be any later and still be at night.

TOO OLD

The man or woman of over 50 who doesn't have steady employment is treading quicksand. Thirty per cent of the members of the National Association of Manufacturers admit they have established maximum limits on the age of new employees. Who will become a friend of mankind by giving security of employment without taking away the incentive to efficiency?

POLAR WEATHER

The success of long distance weather forecasting has been a debated topic for years. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Antarctic explorer and flier, is on the side of those who believe weather conditions can be predicted for years ahead. The explorer's plans call for observation of sunspots over a period of 10 years from 30 stations in the Arctic and 12 in the Antarctic. The expense of ten millions would be made up quickly, provided the experiment succeeded, in benefits to American farmers.

THE IDEAL

Fielding Yost tells high school pupils that, in his estimation, "Lindy" is the ideal man. It is worth noting that the famous football coach omits athletic prowess from his list of essential attributes.

Public opinion does remarkable things, and a great part of the success of the reforestation movement in the south depends on the attitude of the public. One attitude that has been looking ahead in this connection is the American Tree association, of Washington, D. C., headed by Charles Lathrop Pack, who has given me the privilege of making the first public announcement of its program for the purpose of adding some 30,000,000 acres of land to the foresting land of the Gulf states. He has recently made a survey of these states—Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas—and reports that there are approximately 30,000,000 acres of idle forest land in them, which are not naturally restocking to forests.

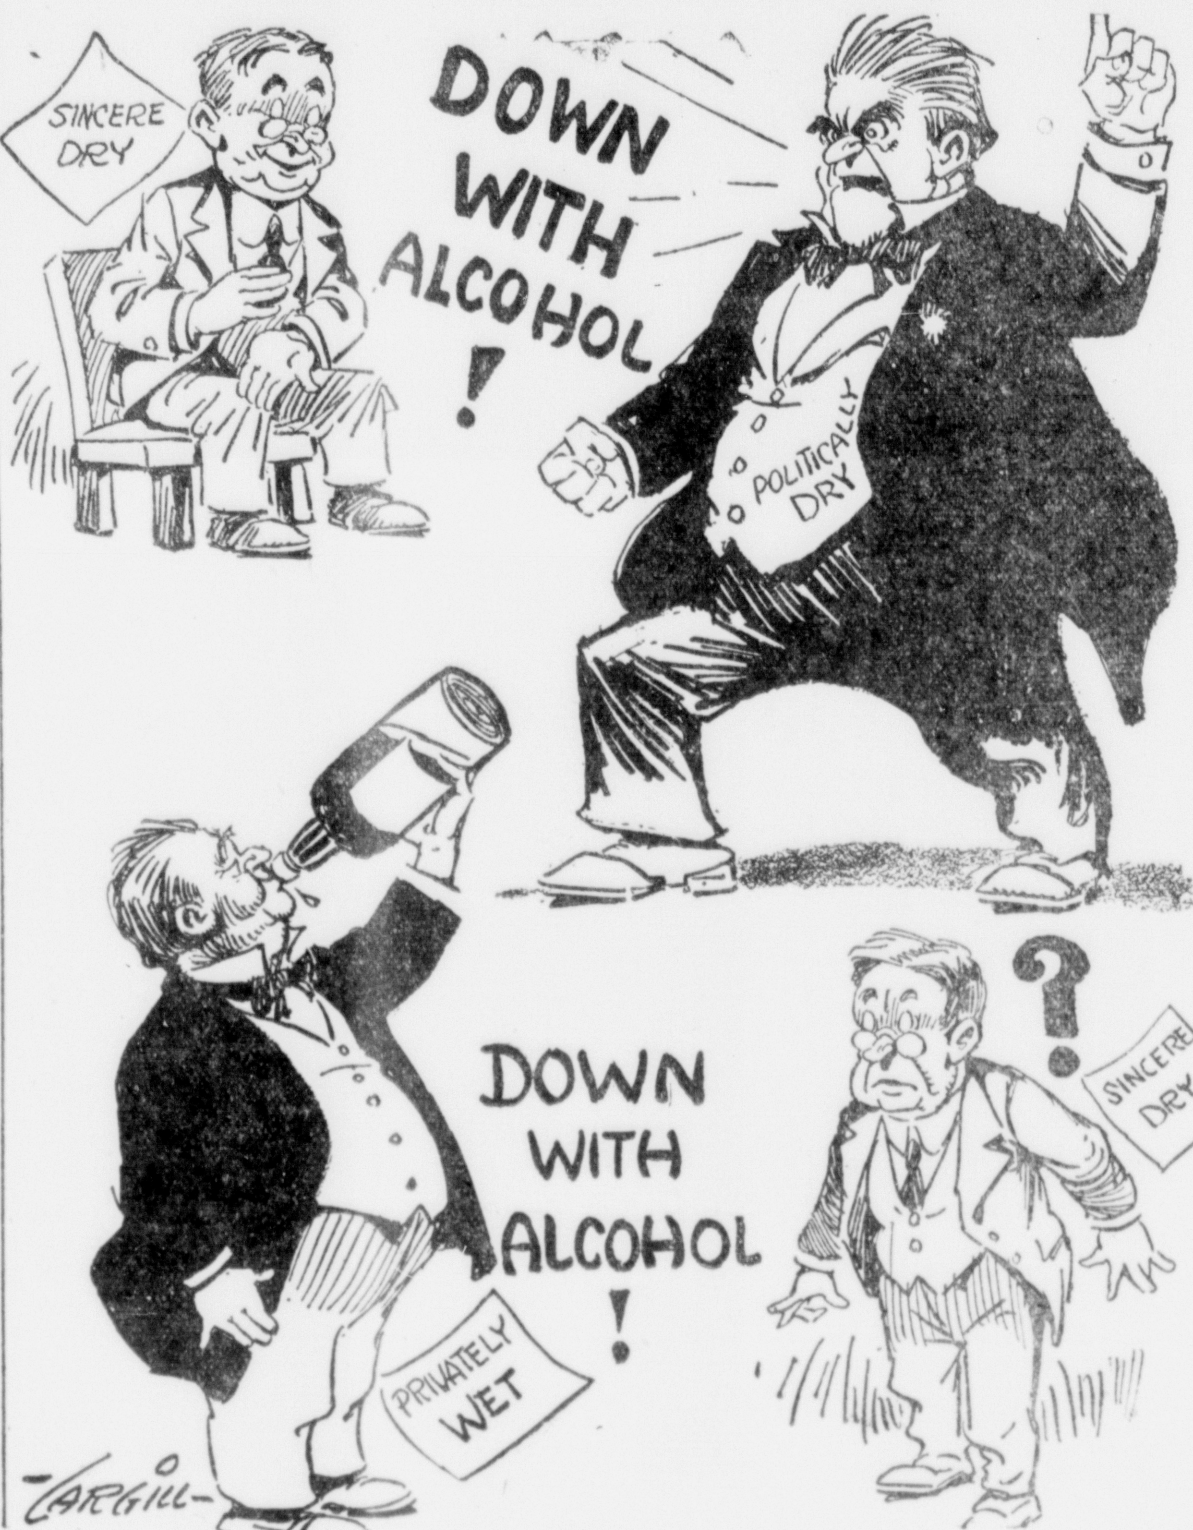

The campaign which he has planned aims to bring back these idle lands to a condition in which they will be producing a profitable forest crop. The state of this land is owned by the state, some by the federal government, but most of it by private owners. Efforts will be made to show these private owners how their lands can be properly protected from fire, which will permit natural regrowth of trees and planting where it is necessary, be made so productive at a comparatively slight cost that they will return a profit to their owners and add tremendously to the resources of the south.

The program of the American Tree association for the Gulf states, will, therefore, resolve itself largely into endeavors to aid the state forestry departments in acquiring large appropriations for the production of seedlings to supply demands of small woodlot owners, farmers, and other timberland proprietors. It will require much education work to get such owners to become more interested in replanting their non-productive areas than they are at present. And it is gratifying that the newspapers of the states are very strongly in favor of such a program.

The large areas of cut-over idle forest lands which have already accumulated form a heavy burden upon many states and rural communities. There are numerous distressing examples of loss of population, removal of railroads, decrease in taxable values, migration of industries, if not of whole communities, and general economic and social decay arising from the idleness of large tracts of land after its original timber resources had been destroyed. This is one of the critical phases of the problem of

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

I promised to write about earrings—those fascinating bits of jewelry which are so essentially barbaric. And since planning to write about them I have seen so many women wearing them who should not! And so many others who do not wear them who could wear them well. It almost seems to me that an adviser in jewelry is needed by many people.

At times I feel that almost every type of ear jewelry of some sort—earrings for example—if only a woman can know the proper style for her to wear. Earrings that suit some types of women definitely do not suit others.

I know one woman whose face is very round. Yet she wears large, round earrings set ana district, to fill a vacancy, he was re-elected and served until 1913. He was elected to the senate in 1913 and is now serving his third term. He is a Democrat.)

Now the woman whose face is long and narrow could wear the round type well. But it must not be too heavy looking, if her features are delicate. The narrow face is often enhanced by the loop type of earring, which gives the effect of roundness, yet is not heavy or awkward in shape. Hoops of pearls and delicate hoops of gold and colored enamel are beautifully worn by the woman whose face is oval and whose inclination to thinness.

defend himself only through a statement which never is published in connection with the attack itself and may never be seen by many who have heard or read the accusations against him."

President Hoover has been mentioned as favorable to the Kelly proposal.

"At any rate, he was favorable to it during his term as secretary of commerce," confirms the congressman.

The latter's plan is not a new one with him. He first suggested it in the much earlier 1920's, and submitted it at the time to each of the then members of the cabinet.

"It was approved," he says, "by all of them."

By Secretary Fall? On that point representative is not positive.

It may not have been as early as the Fall regime, he admits. "But it certainly was approved," he adds, "by Secretaries Hoover and Mellon."

Which latter name is somewhat significant—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon have been rather noticeably referred to in print as one cabinet member who might not like being interrogated in congress concerning his departmental policies.

Four people may be served with the rice loaf. It makes a nice variation for the fish dinner, if you serve fish once a week. It would also make a good luncheon dish.

Today's Recipes
 Rice Loaf—Three cups warm cooked rice, one can salmon, or one and one-half cups flaked smoked or fresh salmon. Flaked buttered bread pan or other brick mold with the cooked rice. Fill center with the salmon, moisten with egg sauce. Cover with rice. Set in a pan of hot water and bake 40 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit). Turn out on hot platter. Garnish with parsley and pour remaining egg sauce over it.

Egg Sauce—Two and one-half tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, two egg yolks, one teaspoon lemon juice, three tablespoons butter, a few grains pepper. Melt the butter in a double boiler, add the flour. Stir until smooth. Add the hot milk gradually, stirring constantly. When thickened, pour a little of the sauce slowly into the slightly beaten yolks, stir over hot water. Add lemon juice and seasoning and the butter bit by bit.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS M. D.
 Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet For Children"

C. wants to know why cod liver oil contains vitamins, when the original source of vitamins is in the green plants, and the cod is a deep sea fish?

The cod stores up the vitamins in its liver in a plentiful way. C. There are a number of sea weeds and plants, known as algae, in the sea; tiny creatures called plankton, floating on the upper stratum of the sea, eat these, and then they, in turn, are eaten by squids and mollusks, which, in turn, are eaten by the fishes, especially the cod fish. So the vitamins of the sea plants are finally passed on to them.

Children, as arduous, don't like cod liver oil, and they do like cream. (I remember one mother wrote me that her baby was normal in every respect except that it liked cod liver oil! I understand that cods do like cod liver oil, and it is the custom now among some dairymen—I have read—to give cod liver oil to them in the winter. This increases the amount of cream, and vitamins, especially A and D. So eventually, perhaps, we will give the cod liver oil to the cows and let the child get its vitamins from the cream.

"My mother is suffering from cancer of the upper lip, and the doctor I consulted about two months ago told me that owing to his advanced age—he is about 82—he can do nothing to relieve her. He said that this form of cancer is the least painful, but I know my mother suffers very much and she says the lumps in her lip are very sore. Some friends suggested home remedies to dry them up, but they do not seem to work. Is cancer listed among the communicable diseases?" T.

There is no home remedy that will dry up, or have any effect on cancer in any way. T., except, perhaps to make it worse.

We disagree with your doctor who says that your mother is too old to have any treatment. Radium or X-Ray, but especially the radium is very successfully used on skin cancer, and there is no age limit to its use. You live quite near to New York City, and advise you to take your mother to the New York Skin and Cancer hospital at 301 East Ninth street.

No, cancer is not communicable. Skin cancer is very successfully treated now, so I still have hopes for your mother, unless her condition has gone too long.

If you want more information on cancer, write to the American Society for the Control of Cancer, 25 West Forty-third Street, New York City.

"Is it true that pork is unfit for human consumption? If so, please tell me why." W.

Pork is just as wholesome a food as any other meat, if the animals are housed well and cleanly fed. Sometimes pigs contract trichinosis from eating trichina infected rats. If they do, they also become contaminated, and unless there is competent meat inspection this meat can get on the market; and if eaten in a underdone state, the embryo which are curled up in the muscle fibers are freed and migrate to the muscles and other organs of the consumer. Therefore, pork should always be cooked very thoroughly and never eaten rare. This applies to all pork products—sausages, etc.—for trichinosis is a serious disease. Pork is higher in fat than any other meats, and those who have delicate digestions may have to avoid it.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Even rules of etiquette seem to have no foundation in common sense or reason, although something they do mean something once upon a time. Others against which the youngsters fret and fume are readily traced to their source and seem reasonable enough once they are explained.

Now in the case of a young woman accepting financial aid from a young man friend, it's not done. And the reason is that she puts herself under obligations to him and usually such obligations are misinterpreted by outsiders. One should not pay too much attention to idle gossip, but it is well to be cautious and not give respecters too much food for talk. Besides, a young man has a right to think of a girl who accepts his financial help as his fiancée, and if she later decides she does not love him, it's somewhat embarrassing. This convention has some foundation in common sense, you see.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE I am a young man of 23, married in love with a girl not quite 15. She lives in another town not far from here. She is working for her board while going to high school. It is wrong for me to help her financially on my own accord? I am not a rich man, but want to help her and I want to make her last year of school a success."

"Is it wrong for me to spend a week-end with her occasionally at the place she boards, without an invitation from the hostess? They do not approve of her having a steady friend, but we have been so for a long time. A LOVER-ONCE-BUT."

If the girl can manage without your assistance it would be better, Pal. She would always feel under obligations to you, and as she is so young she may really change in her feelings towards you. You would not want her to feel herself bound to you, would you without any experience with others? And let us to the week-ends, I think it

"DEAR LITTLE 'WAITING': Thanks for your nice words about my picture and my advice. I enjoyed your letter. I wouldn't 'choose' between the two boys at all, as you say you get a 'new crush' frequently. Just go on having good times, and when you are older you will be able to choose for yourself."

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE I am a little girl of 16 and I think I am in love. I love a very handsome blond and he is 19, but he is not of my class. I mean I am from a very high-class family. He is Irish and I am not. I soak out from home and go to that church and the family thinks I am going to my own. Shall I keep on loving this young man and shall I let people know I go with him? BETTY LOU."

A boy friend whom you cannot bring to your home and go with openly is not a proper person for a little girl to associate with, Betty Lou. Better ask your mother to let you introduce him to her or drop him.

"It is bad enough for such a terrible fate to overtake the Wild Geese without a Human finding it out. If you dare to tell any of your people what has happened this night, and I ever hear about it, I will peek both your eyes out! And I shall hear of it, you may be sure of that! If any harm comes to these fallen kindred of mine I shall feel certain you are the one to blame."

"Off with you, now, before I lose my patience and do something I may be sorry for afterward."

Peter was surprised and angry. What had he ever done to old Gander to make the fellow turn upon him like that? Why, then, had always been the best of friends? When he only wanted to help the poor fallen birds, too! He could hear them groaning all about him.

He wisely decided, though, there was no sense in arguing with an excited Gander—he wouldn't gain anything, and indeed he might lose an eye for his trouble, so making the best of things, Peter turned back and hurried off home.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE FALL OF THE PROUD WILD GESE

What a commotion in the barnyard now! Every tame goose and gander, large and small, stretched out its neck, flapped its wings and screamed a welcome to its wild cousins, who were now almost over their heads. Peter could hardly make out the V-shaped flying wedge in the bright moonlight, and it stretched across the heavens as far as he could see.

"Honk! Honk! Honk!" answered the proud wild fliers.

"Hear! They are telling us of the howling winds, the crashing icebergs, the swirling snows of the North! Listen! Now they are whispering of the joys to come, of laughing ripples, of warm sunbeams, of sweet flowers of the South, to which they are on their way! Oh, to be wild, wild, wild!" mourned Gander to the boy.

Then something happened— a dreadful something! With shrieks of fear and cries of pain, countless numbers of the flock that only a second before had been winging so proudly through the starry night came crashing to the ground.

Startled as he was, Peter's first thought was to go to the aid of the fallen geese. He was climbing over the barnyard fence when he was stopped in a most unexpected way. Gander flew straight at him, his neck stretched out, and his sharp beak was almost in the boy's face.

CEDARVILLE COLLEGE LOSES TO WITTENBERG IN OPENING GAME

Pitching and hitting, necessary qualities to win ball games, were noticeably absent where Cedarville College's baseball team was concerned Thursday afternoon, and the "Yellow-Jackets" were swamped by Wittenberg College, 15 to 2 in the season's opener at Zimmermann Field, Springfield.

The Wittenberg nine started off with six runs in the first inning, enough to sew up the game then and there. Altogether, the Lutheran team gathered fifteen tallies, aided and abetted by ten hits and ten passes issued by three Cedarville hurlers.

Coach R. M. Borst's team collected only four hits off the combined offerings of three Wittenberg pitchers. One was a double by Walter Boyer, right fielder. Maurer Wittenberg shortstop, furnished the heavy stick work of the fray, poking out four hits in five trips to the plate, including a home run.

Cedarville scored one run in the fourth when Lyon drew a walk and W. Boyer doubled. The sixth inning brought another marker when Lyon again walked, stole second

LANGS SET RECORD IN CLOSING MATCH OF BOWLING LEAGUE

Finis was written on the 1928-29 Recreation League bowling season Thursday night but not before one league record, which had withstood challenges all season, had been shattered.

The Lang Transfers, which wound up in fourth place in the league by winning three straight games from McDowell-Torrence in the final match of the season, established a new season's league record of 1,059 for high team single game.

Langs set the new mark in the final game of the match, exceeding the previous record of 1,057, established by the champion Greene County Lumber Co. by a bare two pins.

In this record-breaking exhibition, Whittington rolled 198; Highley, 219; H. Spahr, 190; D. Jordan, 232; and Pesavento, 220.

Pesavento led the winners with a series of 624 followed by Dan Jordan with a three-game total of 609. J. Purdon topped the losing team with 512. Box score:

Baseball Puzzlers

By CHARLEY BARRETT

Big League Scout Writing for Central Press and The Gazette. Whenever the hot stove leaguers gather around during the winter months they usually drag out one particular trick play for the prize argument.

I have heard the boys getting steamed up over this one for years and years. All big league umpires have been asked for the answer on innumerable instances.

The play first came to my attention in the Piedmont league some years ago. I think Bob Connery and Eddie Herr were also at the same game.

Durham, the home club, filled the bases with two out. Soon the count on the hitter was three balls and two strikes. The next delivery was so wide of the plate that the catcher barely knocked the ball down.

With all the base runners starting with the pitcher's arm, both the man on third and the man on second scored. The batter, who was entitled to a walk, tried to make second and in his anxiety cut first base by a yard.

The catcher, recovering the ball, threw to second base, but the batter slid in safely. Then the first baseman, who had observed the batter's short cut, took the ball and touched the first base. He appealed to the base umpire for a decision. That official agreed the batter had missed the bag, but declared he was automatically entitled to first owing to a base on balls.

Now, how about the runs? Were they legal? Should both have counted or only one, or none at all? Really, the batter who walked never did reach first base. On the other hand the minute the umpire ruled the pitch as the fourth ball he was guaranteed a free trip to first. The man on third was forced home, but the out for cutting first base was the third out.

This play was the grandfather of all trick questions.

WORLD WAR PICTURE DRAWS BIG CROWDS TO BIJOU THEATER

Xenians saw "The World War" Thursday afternoon and night—one of the most comprehensive panoramas and close-ups of that conflict ever shown on the screen.

The greatest war in history was shown graphically at the Bijou Theater under auspices of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, American Legion, as a benefit show, and drew such large crowds that a third evening show was given, instead of the two which had been planned.

By a remarkable use of maps, the progress of the struggle was made easy to follow in all its phases.

America's entry in the World War was traced by the declaration of war by President Wilson, through the training of troops in the cantonments, the transporting of troops to France—the chow lines and the tiers of bunks in the bowels of ships—the disembarkation and the actions of the American forces at Cantigny, Chateau Thierry, Belleau Woods, Champagne-Marne, Aune-Marne, St. Mihiel, the Argonne, and finally the scenes at the front when on Armistice Day, 1918, the guns were silenced.

The O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band, under the direction of Prof. H. E. Seall, furnished music before the first evening show commenced.

It is estimated that in excess of 1,300 people saw the war film. The Legion wishes to thank the public for its support of the picture for its support of the war effort and to express its regret because many people were forced to stand throughout the show because of lack of seats. Such large crowds at all performances had not been anticipated, it was pointed out.

Legionnaires realized nearly $250 from the show and the proceeds will be used for relief of transient ex-service men and to assist needy World War veterans.

DEMPSEY SUGGESTS CZAR FOR BOXING; SAYS HEAD NEEDED

CHICAGO, April 11.—Jack Dempsey today advocated a supreme head for boxing, who would act with the same power that Commissioner Kenesaw Landis exercises in baseball.

"For the good of the sport the controlling bodies should get together," Dempsey said, "there are too many differences. What the game needs is a central head, a man who really knows the business and has the nerve to make decisions without worrying about the squawkers."

Jack's plan would unite every state commission with a parent body, the head of which would prevail in all disputes. The former heavyweight champion believes co-operation between all governing bodies, working under a single head, would make boxing "the greatest sport in the world."

"The National Boxing Association has made a good start," Dempsey said, "but some of the big fight centers, like New York, do not recognize the organization. I believe the N. B. A. could be used as a key-stone for the movement. It is the largest of the controlling bodies and if every state belonged to it the next step would be the big shot for a head."

Jack said he believed the money for a central office could be obtained by taxing fights.

The first task after organization, Dempsey said, would be the weeding out of undesirables.

"The big shot? No, I don't know who is recommended but a good organizer is needed and the right guy can always be found."

"Me? Hell no! I've too many troubles now."

Jack's plan would unite every state commission with a parent body, the head of which would prevail in all disputes. The former heavyweight champion believes co-operation between all governing bodies, working under a single head, would make boxing "the greatest sport in the world."

"The National Boxing Association has made a good start," Dempsey said, "but some of the big fight centers, like New York, do not recognize the organization. I believe the N. B. A. could be used as a key-stone for the movement. It is the largest of the controlling bodies and if every state belonged to it the next step would be the big shot for a head."

Jack said he believed the money for a central office could be obtained by taxing fights.

The first task after organization, Dempsey said, would be the weeding out of undesirables.

REPAIRS ON MAPLE STREET REQUESTED

Co-operation of City Commission in improving Maple St. was sought by several property owners who attended the bi-monthly meeting Thursday night.

The street connects Chestnut and Detroit Sts., and is not paved. One property owner, Oliver Belden, auto club secretary, pointed out that a survey he had made disclosed that three out of four autos traveling from Chestnut to Detroit St., use Maple St., in preference to other connecting streets, and that the dust is unbearable.

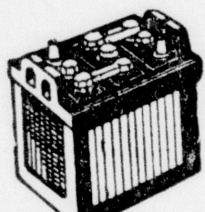

Paving of the streets, while acceptable, was not requested, and the commission will furnish property owners with an estimate of the cost of installing curb and gutter and repairing the street with gravel and oil, to provide temporary relief.

Commissioners D. W. Cherry and Jacob Kany did not attend the meeting.

The Better Way

THE CHURCH AND THE WORLD INTEREST

The Rev. Harry Earl Woolever, editor of the National Methodist Press says, "The church today is winning by a closer margin than ever in her history. She has not the wide field once offered her. She does not operate with the liberty that once characterized her. She quickly runs into other interests. She finds other influences operating in her old-time field. Her influence has gone, so far as to create situations into which other organized entities have come and are now claiming the right of possession. Therefore, if she wins, she does so by a closer margin. Individual habitation of a private kind is being determined by science in the form of hygiene. The old message made in the name of the gospel concerning much of our wrong doing has now shifted its responsibility to medicine and right living in the interests of health. Indeed, it is not true that today the insistence made upon personal goodness in the form of sobriety, regular habits and self control is being thought in the interests of personal, physical and mental health? Under this pressure the church continues to find herself called upon to adopt her message to the insistence of the hour expressing itself by emphasis upon good living because it pays in healthful results.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

Israel was taken captive into Assyria in 722 B. C. and Judah into Babylon in 586 B. C. With the appearance of Cyrus, the Persian conqueror of Babylon, hope dawned on the captives should return to Jerusalem and rebuild the temple and successive expeditions made their way to Jerusalem during the next one hundred years.

V. 1. "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God." Bitterly had Judah repented in such sincerity that in a mysterious way God spoke words of comfort; God wills that we shall be a happy people.

V. 2. "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her, that her iniquity is accomplished, that her iniquity is pardoned, that she hath received of Jehovah's hand double for all her sins." Warfare is a period of distress during which time real penitence is involved which finds God's pardon abundantly expressed.

V. 3. "The voice of one that crieth, prepare ye in the wilderness the way of Jehovah; make level in the desert a highway for our God." Rarely can comfort come to us as long as we remain inactive in the presence of our troubles. In the deepest discouragement we are full of dormant energies that can be aroused and hatched to our work and then our whole outlook changes. To get back to Jerusalem the work as indicated in verse four had to be done.

V. 5. "And the glory of the Lord shall be revealed and all flesh shall see it together; for the mouth of Jehovah hath spoken it." God's revelation in his word, in nature, in special events, in personal experiences is of paramount importance that the individual may see God.

V. 6. "The voice of one saying, cry. And one said, what shall I cry? All flesh is grass, and all the goodness thereof is as the flower of the field? These words represent a conversation between an angel and Isaiah. The celestial voice says, "cry" and Isaiah says, "What shall I cry?"—then follows the celestial voice in the remaining language of the lesson.

V. 7. "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, because the breath of Jehovah bloweth upon it; surely the people are grass." The breath here is the breath of life; the flower fades but the life is seen later in the fruit that is formed. Man dies but his real life will be seen later.

V. 8. "The grass withereth, the flower fadeth; but the word of our God shall stand forever." In this world of uncertainties, the word of God is permanent; uncertainty brings unhappiness but certainty brings happiness which every child of God may enjoy.

Vs. 9-11. "Say unto the cities of Judah, behold your God, behold the Lord Jehovah will come as a mighty one, and his arm will rule for him; behold his reward is with him and his recompense before him. He will feed his flock like a shepherd." God is mighty against his foes, for he is just and liberal toward his friends. His arms are full of blessing for His people.

Discussion on Questions S.S. Lesson

1. How did the Jews come to be in Babylon?

2. What made it possible for the Jews to get back to the home land?

3. How are sufferings, hardships, trials and sorrows to be treated?

4. What aspects of God are revealed in this lesson?

5. Where in this lesson are taught missions and evangelism?

6. Why are we apt to take counsel from men rather than from God's word?

7. What are the preparations necessary for the coming of Christ into the heart?

Clericus says, "Comfort is one of the universal needs of the world; comfort means an inner fort of strength and courage and hope, and the Bible is the greatest book of comfort given to man. No day is so dark, no guilt is so deep, that God does not have a comforting word to speak."

LESSON PRAYER
"O Lord, we are subjects of suffering and sorrow; for seasons we may be free from them but sooner or later we are overcome; we would enthrone thee in our heart; we would hide thy word in our heart that at the fountain head there may be strength and comfort when needed."

1. Why do not more young men enter the ministry? It is still necessary to have spiritual leadership and men with a message. We are prone to think that spiritual leadership is confined to the men in the pulpit. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin says, "In recent years many new forms of religious leadership other than the ministry have been developed. Preaching has got outside the churches, slipped out of its gown and pulpit, and found many secular avenues of expression. Novelists, dramatists, college professors, judges, labor leaders, journalists and statesmen now preach with all the passionate emphasis of Puritan preachers on the moral ideals and objectives of the race. Many of these men would, had they lived in early New England, have entered the ministry."

Had Theodore Roosevelt lived in the New England of Cotton Mather his preaching of the square deal would doubtless have been hurled from the pulpit to the enlightening of many a somnolent Puritan congregation. Winston Churchill's "The Inside of the Cup" would doubtless have been delivered from a pulpit to a limited congregation instead of reaching a best-seller novel audience. Charles Rann Kennedy, the playwright, would, in earlier days, have turned naturally to the pulpit rather than to the stage as the medium of expression for his servant-in-the-house ideas. Charles Evans Hughes as governor of New York preached from the shabby-board rostrums of county fairs and in the hot halls of political mass meetings the same basic moralities his father preached for forty years from the pulpit. When Woodrow Wilson, a layman, became president of Princeton University, his appeals to the conscience and idealism of its young men were as ringing as the appeals of any of his clerical predecessors. Our own Edward Alsworth's "Sin and Society" would, in Jonathan

CHOOSING A LIFE WORK

One of the important questions in the home is that of choosing a life work. The question ought to be answered in view of supplying some of the needs of mankind.

What are some of these leading human needs? Mary Moxey in her book, "Finding My Place" says, "the leading needs of men and women are food, shelter, clothing, transportation, communication, knowledge, health, recreation, art, love, religion, freedom and power."

What needs can you help to meet should ever be in one's mind thinking of his life work? To be specific, what needs could you help to meet by working in a bakery? a tobacco factory? a chewing gum corporation? an ammunition factory? an automobile shop? What specific needs could you help supply by being a teacher? a lawyer? a minister? a music teacher?

The leader must train himself to stand alone.

UNDERGROUND

A LOVE AND MYSTERY STORY

BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird noises that no one can fathom. They are underground sounds beneath a house people say is haunted. While eating in a King's Cross restaurant, Brown, a romantic young clerk, overhears a rough-looking man "After her! And if she's troublesome—don't be particular what you do to her!" Brown sees the girl leaving, and from the brief look decides she is the most beautiful girl he has ever seen. He follows the girl and the little man who is on her trail. They board a train. Brown obtains a seat in the same compartment with the girl and the little man. When the train slows up for a station Brown grabs the man and they roll out on the station platform. Brown is stunned and the little man jumps back on the train.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

The world went black. When it returned to its normal color Brown found himself in a dingy station waiting room, stretched out on a dingy station couch—hard, shiny and convex. Above him loomed a large, fat, boyish face, that stared down with rather comical earnestness; but as Brown stared back the face disappeared, and another face looked quite lean by comparison with its predecessor, although in actual fact it was fiercer and stronger, and the two brown eyes were gravely inquiring, "Feeling better?" asked the owner of the second face.

UNDERGROUND

A LOVE AND MYSTERY STORY
BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

Copyright, 1929, by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST:

The plot concerns some weird noises that no one can fathom. They are underground sounds beneath a house people say is haunted. While eating in a King's Cross restaurant, Brown, a romantic young clerk, overhears a rough-looking man say: "After her! And if she's troublesome—don't be particular what you do to her!"

Brown sees the girl leaving, and from the brief look decides she is the most beautiful girl he has ever seen. He follows the girl and the little man who is on her trail. They board a train. Brown obtains a seat in the same compartment with the girl and the little man. When the train slows up for a station Brown grabs the man and they roll out on the station platform. Brown is stunned and the little man jumps back on the train.

"From now on, every star who remains silent in a picture will be suspected by his or her former admirers of possessing an incurably raucous voice or an impediment in the speech, or of being just naturally dumb."

So says Robert E. Sherwood, in the current issue of McCall's Magazine. Sherwood points out that it is interesting to watch the future of these players. He says that the unfamiliarity of such foreign stars as Greta Garbo, Emil Jannings, Vilma Banky and Dolores del Rio with the English language will limit them to roles in which an accent is permissible.

Greta Garbo's "A Woman of Affairs," which played here silently, was actually a "sound picture" but the sound was not of Greta's making. Her Swedish accent wouldn't go well with Michael Arlen's heroine.

talkie tests proved his voice is suited but that Charley Chaplin has refused to utter one word on the screen and Lon Chaney has been similarly obdurate. John Gilbert is also still to be heard from while William Haines has done moderately well. Since Sherwood's article was written Mary Pickford has opened in "Coquette," her first talkie, and has done remarkably well.

Other current film literature in the non-movie magazines includes the start of a series by Dick Grave, the movie stunt man, in which he described the death-defying feats of the picture doubles. Grace has seen many of his companions in that daring profession die and he has survived some narrow escapes himself in the making of pictures. The stories are in the Saturday Evening Post.

Broadway has been enriched by the addition of a six-letter word which means everything emotional. Everyone on the Main Stem now who has anything vaguely synonymous with temperament has simply "gone Eagelese." You are Eagelese if you do this or that and it is extremely Eagelese if you

AUTO CLUB OFFERS CITY THREE NEW TRAFFIC CONTROL DEVICES

City Commission has under consideration a proposed gift of three of the latest type automatic flash signals, by the Greene County Auto Club.

The equipment, which may be installed in the ground or overhead, would regulate traffic at Market and Detroit Sts., Second and Detroit Sts., and Columbus and Main Sts., three busy intersections. The offer was made on behalf of the club by Secretary Oliver Belden Thursday night. The club would give the traffic controlling devices outright to the city if the city will agree to install and maintain the equipment.

SENTENCED TWICE ON TWO CHARGES

Separate sentences of from two to fifteen years in Ohio State Penitentiary on each of two indictments for burglary and larceny was the penalty imposed in Common Pleas Court by Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday on Andrew Fleming, Washington C. H., twice convicted for burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of twenty-four chickens from two farms near Cedarville last March 15.

Fleming was found guilty by a jury of the theft of seventeen chickens worth $26.50 from the farm of Zetta McElroy, Columbus Pike, and at a second trial by the same jury was convicted of stealing seven chickens valued at $12.70 from Glen F. Cline, Columbus Pike.

ROMANTIC AGE GOOD ENTERTAINMENT IN OPINION OF SCRIBE

Parades Adjectives To Praise Junior Class Play.

To begin with, we dislike effusion as much as you do. Probably more, since the responsibility of writing it is much more disagreeable than the accident of reading it.

It is true we never quibble at romanticizing high school amateur theatricals out of all proportion to their merits, because there are home talent stars about whom the public refuses to believe anything but the most remarkable.

So for that reason we are willing to frolic around them with as many gaudy adjectives as we can remember. This is called the poetic license.

In this particular case, however, we are not bound to burn incense or preserve an illusion.

We allude to "The Romantic Age," a three-act comedy produced by the junior class of Xenia Central High School as its annual class play Thursday night before a large audience in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium.

The title of the piece telegraphed the theme long before the asbestos lifted. You suspected that the play had something or other to do with the gay period "in days of old, when knights were bold." In a way, that is exactly what happened.

Miss Sara Davidson, in the leading feminine role as "Melisande," daughter of "Mrs. Knowle," was a girl looking for romantic chivalry and she artfully handled her part. When she first set eyes on "Gervase Mallory," played by Ralph Baldwin, she thought her dreams had come true, for the latter was dressed for a masquerade in the costume of a knight. It was dark when they first met and this contributed to the illusion. Her hopes that here was a man that was "different" were shattered, however, the next day, when she saw him attired in knickers. "Bobby," a part taken by Minor Monroe, had proposed to "Melisande" several times, but finally transferred his affection to "Jane Bagot," a niece of Mrs. Knowle, played by Miss Jean Marshall.

"Mrs. Knowle" was portrayed by Miss Helen LeSourd and "Mr.

Knowle" by John W. Collins. Miss LeSourd carried away a lion's share of the honors and Collins was a credit to the part of a dignified man. Hugh Espey as "Ern," had a comical role while other fine portrayals were given by John Cooper as "Master Susan," and Miss Roberta Ralls, as Alice.

Miss Davidson displayed unusual dramatic ability and on the whole, those who witnessed the opening night's performance went away full contented.

One of the most attractive scenes depicted a glade in the woods. Miss Olive Allen, class advisor, devoted much time to arrange forest setting and it was unusually beautiful. The production was under the direction of W. C. Boyce, English instructor, and the play was easily a credit to its director.

"The Romantic Age" is a comedy written by A. A. Milne and produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. Musical entertainment was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of E. G. Whitworth.

The performance will be repeated Friday night at 8 o'clock and is well worth seeing.—P. W. Frame

DELIVERED FULLY EQUIPPED

Ask the Salesman this Question:

EVERY prospective motor car purchaser should ask every salesman he talks to, this question: "What is the price of this car, delivered to me, fully equipped with all the equipment?"

You should also ask what the difference is between the factory (f. o. b.) price and the delivered price—and then ask what that difference buys.

Heretofore it has been customary for factory prices to cover only the bare car. This permits the dealer to sell you your bumpers and the other accessories, at retail prices.

Nash, in introducing the new "400"

Series, pioneered a new practice, by installing this extra equipment at the factory, at no extra cost to you.

When you ask the suggested question you'll find most salesmen (not Nash salesmen) reluctant to answer. They would rather not say how much more there is to pay, or what the extra money buys.

And you'll also find that by reason of the Nash policy, Nash "400" delivered, fully-equipped prices are much lower than those of many other cars with the same factory (f. o. b.) prices, and lower than some cars with even lower factory (f. o. b.) prices.

AUTO CLUB OFFERS CITY THREE NEW TRAFFIC CONTROL DEVICES

City Commission has under consideration a proposed gift of three of the latest type automatic flash signals, by the Greene County Auto Club.

The equipment, which may be installed in the ground or overhead, would regulate traffic at Market and Detroit Sts., Second and Detroit Sts., and Columbus and Main Sts., three busy intersections. The offer was made on behalf of the club by Secretary Oliver Belden Thursday night. The club would give the traffic controlling devices outright to the city if the city will agree to install and maintain the equipment. Secretary Belden said the signals include, green, red and amber lights and are an improvement over the traffic regulating device installed at Main and Detroit Sts.

SENTENCED TWICE ON TWO CHARGES

Separate sentences of from two to fifteen years in Ohio State Penitentiary on each of two indictments for burglary and larceny was the penalty imposed in Common Pleas Court by Judge R. L. Gowdy Thursday on Andrew Fleming, Washington C. H., twice convicted for burglary and larceny in connection with the theft of twenty-four chickens from two farms near Cedarville last March 15. Fleming was found guilty by a jury of the theft of seventeen chickens worth $26.50 from the farm of Zetta McElroy, Columbus Pike, and at a second trial by the same jury was convicted of stealing seven chickens valued at $12.70 from Glen F. Cline, Columbus Pike.

ROMANTIC AGE GOOD ENTERTAINMENT IN OPINION OF SCRIBE

Parades Adjectives To Praise Junior Class Play.

To begin with, we dislike effusion as much as you do. Probably more, since the responsibility of writing it is much more disagreeable than the accident of reading it.

It is true we never quibble at romanticizing high school amateur theatricals out of all proportion to their merits, because there are home talent stars about whom the public refuses to believe anything but the most remarkable.

So for that reason we are willing to frolic around them with as many gaudy adjectives as we can remember. This is called the poetic license.

In this particular case, however, we are not bound to burn incense or preserve an illusion.

We allude to "The Romantic Age," a three-act comedy produced by the junior class of Xenia Central High School as its annual class play Thursday night before a large audience in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium.

The title of the piece telegraphed the theme long before the asbestos lifted. You suspected that the play had something or other to do with the gay period "in days of old, when knights were bold." In a way, that is exactly what happened.

Miss Sara Davidson, in the leading feminine role as "Melisande," daughter of "Mrs. Knowle," was a girl looking for romantic chivalry and she artfully handled her part. When she first set eyes on "Gervase Mallory," played by Ralph Baldner, she thought her dreams had come true, for the latter was dressed for a masquerade in the costume of a knight. It was dark when they first met and this contributed to the illusion.

Her hopes that there was a man that was "different" were shattered, however, the next day, when she saw him attired in knickers. "Bobby," a part taken by Minor Monroe, had proposed to "Melisande" several times, but finally transferred his affection to "Jane Bagot," a niece of Mrs. Knowle, played by Miss Jean Marshall. "Mrs. Knowle" was portrayed by Miss Helen LeSourd and "Mr.

Knowle" by John W. Collins. Miss LeSourd carried away a lion's share of the honors and Collins was a credit to the part of a dignified man. Hugh Espey as "Cro," had a comical role while other fine portrayals were given by John Cooper as "Master Susan," and Miss Roberta Ralls, as Alice.

Miss Davidson displayed unusual dramatic ability and on the whole, those who witnessed the opening night's performance went away full contented.

One of the most attractive scenes depicted a glade in the woods. Miss Olive Allen, class advisor, devoted much time to arranging the forest setting and it was unusually beautiful. The production was under the direction of W. C. Boyce, English instructor, and the play was easily a credit to its director.

"The Romantic Age" is a comedy written by A. A. Milne and produced by special arrangement with Samuel French of New York. Musical entertainment was furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of E. G. Whitworth.

The performance will be repeated Friday night at 8 o'clock and is well worth seeing.—P. W. Frame
